Apply to Go on a Global Exchange This Spring: Oct. 1 Deadline

FSU students can apply to study internationally through FSU's Global Exchanges with 45+ international partner universities in more than 20 different countries while paying FSU tuition and fees and using their financial aid. Applications to go on a Global Exchange this spring are due October 1 (for most programs).

Information sessions are held every Wednesday at 2 p.m. and every Thursday at 12 p.m. in The Globe (GME Building) room 2600. Students who are interested in going on an exchange this summer or next year may attend an information session this semester to get a head start on the application process.

Maia Hass, FSU senior studying marketing and international affairs, went on an exchange to Hanyang University in South Korea last spring. During her exchange, she made friends with a group of students from Spain, Brazil, Australia, Vietnam, and Slovakia, which gave her a variety of different perspectives on the topics of international politics and culture.

"Being put outside of my comfort zone with a handful of others in the same position allowed me to bond with people like never before," Hass said. "I felt more comfortable being authentic and true to myself, because no one there knew me or could judge me based on who I am in my home country. It allowed me to feel comfortable dramatically changing my fashion/style, my attitude, my lifestyle, and my outlook on things."
