Global UGRAD Program Promotes Cultural Diversity, International Exchange

Kuldeep and Adila, FSU's two Global UGRAD-Pakistan students studying at FSU this fall, have spent this semester sharing their unique perspectives and culture with the FSU community while taking classes, exploring American culture, and serving the Tallahassee community.

This Friday, October 25, Kuldeep and Adila will co-host International Coffee Hour from 5–6:30 p.m. in The Globe Dining Room to share Pakistani culture with our FSU community. Attendees will enjoy music, a brief dance lesson, a table featuring cultural jewelry and clothing, as well as Gajar ka Halwa (a traditional carrot-based sweet dessert pudding from Pakistan) with coffee or tea.

The Global UGRAD program increases the diversity of FSU's undergraduate international student population by bringing students from under-represented countries to campus. Students in the program take classes as non-degree seeking students full time and participate in community service, cultural enrichment, and professional development activities.

"Getting the opportunity to study at one of the top 20 public universities in America is nothing less than a dream come true," said Kuldeep, who is studying electrical engineering. "Being able to interact with a highly diversified group of students and professors at FSU has enabled me to pursue my dreams in different ways."
