Transforming Healthcare Through Community Mobilization in Uganda

The Bulamu Model

Attend Engage Your World on Tuesday, October 20, at 4 pm

Join us on Tuesday, October 20, at 4 p.m. on Zoom for a presentation by Richard Chandler, the Chairman and CEO of Bulamu Healthcare International, a Ugandan

NGO that provides medical services to rural communities throughout the country.

Since its establishment in 2016, Bulamu has operated 17 weeklong “supercamps” that have treated more than 154,000 patients at an average cost per visit of only $6.22. Driving systemic change in Uganda, Bulamu has also installed the Health Center Excellence Program, a modern hospital/clinic management system that has improved patient care and clinician productivity at 39 public facilities.

Mr. Chandler will walk the audience through the history and structure of the Bulamu partnership. It is based upon Ugandans’ dedication to community service and western management techniques. He will focus on how local resources, including clinicians and support staff, have dramatically expanded rural health care and, by so doing, encouraged Ugandan government entities as well as NGOs to find creative solutions to the country’s remaining healthcare challenges.

Highlights & Programs

CGE Student Spotlight

Aws Al-Taie

International Alumnus from Iraq
Doctorate in Electrical Engineering, Class of 2019

Recent FSU graduate Aws Al-Taie has been selected as the head of his branch within the Electrical Engineering Department at the University of Technology (UoT) in Baghdad, which is the equivalent of a chair of a department at FSU.

"The rich and wonderful experience that I have gotten through my Ph.D. study under the supervision of Professor Sastry Pamidi and our research group, which is joined by Prof. Lukas Graber's research group at GTech, changed me even when dealing with the small things," Al-Taie said. "Transferring to FSU was the best decision that I have ever made."
