GCC Teaching Faculty Honored with 2019-2020 Undergraduate Teaching Award

Dr. Tanu Kohli Bagwe, the Center for Global Engagement's (CGE) teaching faculty for the Global Citizenship Certificate, received a distinguished 2019-2020 Undergraduate Teaching Award from Florida State University. The Global Citizenship Certificate, a collaborative program between the CGE and International Affairs in the College of Social Sciences and Public Policy, provides undergraduate students at FSU an opportunity to develop important skills and competencies necessary to succeed in today's increasingly globalized workforce.

She was selected by a committee of faculty and students for her excellence as a professor, role model, and innovator in her field.

“Dr. Kohli was greatly influential in my college career. She inspired my passion in research and showed me that presenting it was fun,” said former student Connor Perez, senior majoring in Interdisciplinary Social Science and International Affairs. “She also helped me in becoming a greater global citizen in understanding other perspectives and going beyond the experiences I've already had!”

Awardees demonstrate a record of outstanding performance using creative and innovative teaching techniques, relating knowledge from their field to other disciplines, organizing and presenting information in a stimulating way, serving as a positive role model and challenging students to think critically and challenge assumptions, listening to students' views and ideas, showing respect for all persons, and imparting a respect for truth and love of learning to inspire students to work hard and develop self-esteem through mastery.

“I love working with undergraduate students because they come with this immense curiosity in the ties that bind us together as a world,” Dr. Kohli Bagwe said. “Seeing them learn about new global trends and analyze problems from multiple perspectives is an enriching process for all of us. My favorite part is when they learn different ways of examining cultural behaviors and start applying these to their personal and professional relationships.”
